GRAY HAIR restored to its original color

Clear as the Purest Brook or Black Such a Light or Red Hair can be matched with any darker shade, and many in the city can the most beautiful Glossy Curls, the Fineness and softness of which are unrivalled by using O M Ballard's

Permanent Liquid Hair Dye,

Of our preparation, which is entirely different from all other preparations of the kind. The new Hair comes in the first application of the Dye, and is not a false appearance, but is the original color of the hair, and with the Dye, which will not injure the skin or texture in the slightest degree which is the best evidence which can be given that it is not injurious. On the contrary, it improves the health of the Hair promotes its growth, and prevents it from falling out and unlike other preparations after the Hair is colored and dry, will not crock, fade, or wash out.

In short from its peculiar delicacy softness and easy application it is worthy the attention of all who may wish to improve the color of the Hair as it will make any hair from white to a perfect

It is now used to an unexceptionable extent by persons who have prematurely turned gray, and others whose Hairs are of no definite color which they restore to a beautiful Auburn Brown or Black, without any additional preparation or the slightest trouble.

BALLARD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF

Strawberry Leaves

IS the best sure and safest remedy for the cure of Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus, Summer Complaints in the Stomach and Bowels in Children, and all other Complaints of the Stomach and Bowels. We feel confident in saying that this valuable medicine has been used in many families in this vicinity with the most astonishing success, and we challenge the world to produce a single instance where it has failed to cure, in a short time, any person who has used it according to the directions. We have in our possession hundreds of certificates from persons who have used it in their families, and can testify to its virtues from our own experience. We have sold it for the last two years, and have never had a bottle returned to us, but on the contrary, have had many thousands of persons call on us to thank us for recommending it to them, as the means of saving the lives of their children. We would say to all who are afflicted with any of the above complaints, that they will find this medicine worthy their confidence, and we would recommend it to all Physicians as the best medicine now before the public.

The Election

We give to day such returns as we have been able to collect from all quarters It is quite probable that there is no election of Governor by the people, but of this we are not quite certain

The Portland Advertiser claims the Election of two Whigs and two Democratic Senators in Cumberland County, which is a whig gain of two A Whig Senator is also claimed in Franklin County, which is a gain In York Co, 4 Whigs and 12 Dem, Representatives are elected, same as last year In Cumberland Co 7 Whigs, 2 Free Soil and 10 Democrats are elected, one more town to hear from

The Boston Atlas of Wednesday morning says

'Judging from what we have, the Whigs and Free Soilers will elect more Senators than the Locos and we have strong hopes that they will also succeed in electing a majority of the Representatives We regret, however, that Augusta has elected a Locofoco Representative, by a split among the Whigs on the temperance question

In Farmington, Belcher, (Dem) late Speaker of the House of Representatives, was elected by one majority only Last year he had nearly 600 The Whigs will contest his seat

Horticultural Exhibition.

This exhibition is very attractive and will be continued during this forenoon We advise all who have not yet visited it to do so and satisfy themselves of the great fact it teaches of the success of fruit growing in Bangor and it vicinity

There will be a public sale of fruits and flowers at three o clock this afternoon

☞ The marvelous statements that have been made in the House of Commons, relating to the untold resources of Irish Peat, on the strength of sundry experiments said to have been made, from which the bogs of Ireland were proved to be of more value than all the gold mines of California, we learn by the last steamer have turned out to be a 'splendid illusion' The experiment, it seems, has been tried upon the bogs at Dartmore, and so far from extracting naptha, naptha, ammonia &c from the peat, the result has some how or other been to extract some £20,000 or upwards from the pockets of the experimenters

☞ We would direct our readers to the great sale of carriages and harnesses at auction by Mr E Riddle This carriage mart has increased from the sale of a few carriages annually to that of a great trade sale calling together the richest work and numerous purchasers See advertisement in ano her column

Generous Mother's of Bangor.

We address you, because we wish to go at once to the fountain in behalf of so many little orphans, whose cheeks are even now wet for their lost fathers and mothers

We need not tell you, that the long coffin, passing up Hammond and State Streets have left enough of these dear ones behind There is no one to tell them where to go, some are afraid to go to the Poor House supposing that his place is so named because its inmates are treated poorly—thanks to the Overseers that it is so very far otherwise Only three days ago, the City Marshal and other Officers, in turn went after two of these little ones but could not find them and when another man came, whom they knew to be a friend, these children rushed from their hiding place, and clinging to him, begged him to take care of them, and not let the officers know where they were! They had an idea, that if they were carried to the Alms House, they should starve to death. The gentleman nobly pledged his word that they should not be discovered, and that he would take care of them

These orphans are not all from low families The parents of many of them were worthy of the confidence of their friends and of the city, and their children would do honor to any name Just hear what young Mary said in her last moments—

'Lovely Redeemer stand by me in this my great suffering Dear strangers, you are doing all you can for me and may the Good Father reward you I have great desire to live to take care of these dear children I have one sister and two brothers—dear little ones

Last night her father and mother, herself, as younger sister of fourteen, and one of nine year and two younger brothers, went to bed as well and happy as ever—to-night, the bodies of both parents and a sister one year younger than herself lie in consecrated ground, and the spirit of this one, the eldest daughter, has now joined theirs But there was no fe nale hand to soothe her —and they who know what a mother's, a wife's, a sister's hand and voice are, will feel what I say —three men who had not ceased to watch over the sick and dying exhausted and worn as they were, now watched over Mary till her 'Lovely Redeemer took her There were no dry cheeks there, these strong men wept under the benediction of that angel

Now, Mothers do not resolve at once to adopt one of these orphans—if you have already done so, recall the word which may be fatal Consider what is required of you, what the greatest interests of the child demand—not that you should train the girl to the mop and wash board, not to make a mere drudge of her, to become at last a prey to the Ibertine—an immortal spirit is too holy and precious for that—not that the boy should dig in our streets clean the drains and vaults of the city visit the cellars, the saloons and the Houses of Death, and at last leave no name but infamy—no MOTHERS, make the girl a woman like yourself, let her too learn the high duties of a wife and matron, let her be a thorough mistress of the kitchen and dining room, but also at home in the sitting room and parlor, let her receive your callers and make her worthy to be received, and as she must teach your children if she sees them at all, so should her influence be healthy and purifying and thus will her hope be strengthened of becoming herself a mother, happy, virtuous and respected

Some of these have no relations on this side of the ocean—whether their parents were high or low it hardly matters now—many of them are young and tender, you can mould them into almost anything you please If it is your receive, under a merciful Providence, to be to these dear ones all they need—take them—and may the benediction of the Savior rest upon you —so may he boy become a faithful husband and citizen, and the girl a wife, as virtuous, and kind, and generous as yourselves

The Reported Insurrection of Cuba.

The Mobile Tribune gives the following version of the statement brought by the Severn at that port, of the supposed insurrection of Cuba

It was mentioned by a passenger that at Principe strong symptoms of an outbreak had been manifested, and that the soldiers stationed there aided with the populace In consequence of this, all the forces at that place had been ordered to Havana and a like number transferred from the capital to take their places

☞ The following anecdote I do not recollect to have seen in print, though I have often heard the story An old farmer who was never noted for any extraordinary love of work, himself, on leaving home for a week's absence on business, of which he always managed to have a great deal on hand, gave his son a text, to dig a certain field of potatoes by the time he returned William, after viewing the field, was satisfied that he could do the whole in five days, easy enough, and as the weather was a little cloudy, concluded he would go a fishing that day Tuesday morning, a short examination of the lot convinced him that he could dig them all in four days, and to vary his amusements, he spent that day a "gunning" The third day he dug a few hills, counted the rows and walked around the lot, and satisfied himself that by working snug, he could dig the whole in three days. On Thursday he commenced digging in earnest, but alas, the rows had sadly lengthened, his eyes had strangely deceived him, he progressed remarkably slow,—he was discouraged at the sight of the huge field which before had looked so diminutive and finally throwing down his hoe in despair, swore here was not a man a town who could do the start in a fortnight and he would be hanged if he would dig another hill

The Remedies of a Mortgagee.

Many mistaken ideas are current in the community with regard to the remedies of a mortgagee, which lead to bring into disfavor the strong box species of investment It is supposed —for instance, that in cases of condition broken, either by non payment of the principal or interest secured, or by not insuring the premises, or by some other breach, the mortgagee has no remedy but to take possession of the mortgaged premises,—hold them three years subject to the mortgagor's redemption, having allowed, for the trouble of holding and managing the estate, only a very inadequate compensation, and only the taxable court costs of obtaining possession, if the mortgagor refuses to give up the premises peaceably In a word, it is supposed that in obtaining the security of a mortgage, the lender abandons the rights and remedies which he would have, if the loan were not secured This is a very great mistake, and it is wonderful it should have spread so generally

The mortgagee, in taking security, reserves all his simple remedies He may sue the mortgagor on the debt, attach his real and personal estate, hold to bail or incarcerate, in just the same way he might do, if the mortgage did not exist; and all the while, he may retain an unrelaxed hold upon the mortgaged property, and if the other property of the mortgagor is not sufficient to satisfy the mortgage debt upon which he has obtained judgement, he may then, as a final resort, have recourse to the security Or he may pursue the remedy upon the security alone And, finally the mortgagee may pursue his remedies at once He may take peaceable possession of the property, or sue for possession in a real action, and at the same time, attach other property of the mortgagor, and proceed to final judgement and to the execution of the judgment until his debt is fully satisfied

It is very important that those who have money to invest, should have right views of real estate securities Many regard a mortgage as safe in the sense of the boy's money-box,—so secure as to be secure, even from the depositor, and as a mode of salting down money which will preserve it only after the term of the loan has expired, and the wants of the mortgagee have called it into requisition

The Paris correspondent of the Christain Advocate and Journal says, that on the morning of Sunday, August 12 the following inscription was placed on one of the side-walls of the cathedral of Notre Dame in that city —"The good Shepherd giveth his life for the sheep Pius IX destroyes his with grape shot" It excited so much attention that the police interfered to disperse the crowd The inscription was effaced, but it was renewed during the night, and is said that all the churches had a similar inscription on their walls

☞ Thanks to Mr Lowell, and Mr Cushing of the steamer Governor, for papers received on yesterday, in advance of the mail.

THE DRUNKARD'S GOOD ANGELS.

BY T S ARTHUR

Come Ady and Jane it is time you were in bed' said Mrs Freeman to her two little girls about nine o clock one evening Ady was nine years old, and Jane was a year and a half younger The two children had been sitting at the work table with their mother, one of them studying her lesson and the other engaged on a piece of fancy needle work

'Papa has'nt come yet,' answered Ady

'No, dear But it's getting late, and it is time you were in bed He may not be home for an hour'

Ady laid aside her work and left the table and Jane closed her books and put them away in her school satchel

You can light the lamp on the mantlepiece,' said Mrs Freeman, after a few moments looking around as she spoke, when she saw that the children had both put on their bonnets, and were tying their warm capes close about their necks She under stood very well the meaning of this and therefore did not ask a question, although the tears came to her eyes, and her voice trembled as she said—

'It is very cold out to-night children

'But we won't feel it, mother, replied Ady—We'll run along very quick'

And the two little ones went out, before their mother, whose feelings were clocking her, could say one word more As they closed the door after them, and left her alone, she raised her eyes upwards and murmured, 'God bless and reward the dear children'

It was a bleak wintery night, and as the little adventurers stepped into the street the wind swept fiercely along, and almost drove them back against the door But they caught each other tightly by the hand and bending their little forms to meet the pressure of the cold rushing air, hurried on the way they were going as fast as their feet could move The streets were dark and deserted; but the children were not afraid Love filled their hearts, and left no room for fear

They did not speak a word to each other as they hastened along After going for a distance of several blocks, they stopped before a house brightly over the door of which was a handsome gas lamp, ing the words "Oysters and Refreshments" It was a strange place for two little girls like them to enter at such an hour, but after standing for a moment, they pushed against the green door, which, turned lightly on its hinges, and stepped in to a large and brilliantly lighted bar room

Unless sat" astonished a man who sat reading at a table "Here are those babes again"

Ady and Jane stood still near the door, and looked all around the room But not seeing the object of the research, they went up to the bar, and said timidly to a man who stood behind it, pouring liquor into glasses,

'Has Papa been here to-night?'

The man leaned over the bar, until his face was close to the children when he said, in an angry way,

'I don't know anything about your father And see here, don't you come here any more, if you do, I'll call my big dog out of the yard and make him bite you'

Ady and Jane felt frightened as well by the harsh manner as the angry words of the man, and they started back from him, and were turning towards the door with sad faces, when the person who had first remarked their entrance, called out loud enough for them to hear him,

'Come here, my little girls'

The children stopped and looked at him, when he beckoned for them to approach, and they did so

'Are you looking for your father?' he asked

'Yes, sir,' replied Ady

What did the man at the bar say to you?'

'He said Papa was not here, and if we came any more, he would set his dog on us'

'He did'

'Yes, sir'

The man knit his brows for an instant Then he said,

'Who sent you here?'

'Nobody,' answered Ady

'Don't your mother know you have come?

'Yes, sir She told us to go to bed, but we could not until papa was home. And so we came for him first'

'He is here'

'Is he" and the children faces brightened.

'Yes. He is at the other end of the room asleep, I'll wake him up for you'

Half intoxicated, and sound asleep, it was with some difficulty that Mr Freeman could be aroused

As soon, however, as his eyes were fairly opened, and he found that Ady and Jane had each grasped tightly one of his hands, he arose up and yielded passively to their directions, suffered them to lead him away

'Oh dear' exclaimed a man who had looked on with wonder and deep interest 'That's a pumperance lecture that I cannot stand God bless the little ones,' he added with deep emotion, 'and give them a sober father!'

'I guess you never saw them before?' said one of the bar keepers lightly,

No and I never wish to again, at least, in this place. Who is their father?

'Freeman, the lawyer'

'Not the one who, a few years ago, connected with so much activity the case against the Marine Insurance Company'

'The same'

Is it possible'

A little group now formed around the man, and a good deal was said about Freeman, and his fall from sobriety One who had several times seen Ady and Jane come in and lead him home as they had just done, said it was a most touching case

'Excuse me,' said one, how passively he yields himself to the little things when they come after him I see, sometimes, when I see them, almost weak enough to shed tears'

'They are his good angels' remarked another But I am afraid they are not strong enough to lead him back to the paths he has forsaken.'

You can think what you please about it, gentlemen,' spoke up the landlord, 'but I can tell you my opinion on the subject, I would'nt give much for a mother who would let two little things like them go wandering about the street, alone at this time of night'

One of those who had expressed interest in the children, felt angry at this remark, and he retorted with some bitterness

And I would give less for the man who would make either father drunk'

Ditto to that, responded one of the company

'And here's my hand to that,' said another

The landlord finding that the majority of his company were likely to be against him, smothered his angry feelings and kept silence A few minutes afterwards two or three inmates of the bar room went away

About ten o clock on the next morning, while Mr Freeman who was generally sober in the forenoon, was sitting down, said,

I must crave your pardon beforehand, for what I am going to say Will you promise not to be offended?'

'If you offer me an insult I will resent it,' said the lawyer

So far from that I come with the desire to do you a great service'

Very well Say on'

'I was at Lawson's factory last night

'Well?'

'And I saw something there that touched my heart. For I am at all last night it was only to dream of it, I am a father sir' I have two little girls, and I love them tenderly Oh sir! the thought of their coming out in the cold winter night in search of me in such a polluted place, makes the blood feel cold in my veins'

Words so unexpected coming upon Mr Freeman when he was comparatively sober disturbed him deeply In spite of all his endeavors to remain calm, he trembled all over He made an effort to say someth ng to reply but could not utter a word

'My dear sir,' pursued the stranger, 'you have indeed fallen at the hand of the monster intemperance, and I feel that you are in great peril You have not however, fallen hopelessly You may yet rise if you will Let me then, in the name of the sweet babes, who have shown in so wonderful a manner their love for you, conjure you to rise superior to this deadly foe Reward these dear children with the highest blessing their hearts can desire. Come with me and sign the pledge of freedom Let us though strangers to each other, unite in this one act Come?

Half bewildered, yet with a new hope in his heart, Freeman arose and suffered the man who drew his arm within his to lead him away Before they had separated both had signed the pledge

That evening, unexpectedly, and to the joy of his family Mr Freeman was perfectly sober when he came home After tea, while Ady and Jane were standing on either side of him as he sat near their mother an arm around each of them, he said in a low whisper, as he bent his head down and drew them closer,

'You will never have to come for me again'

The children lifted their eyes quickly to his face, but half understanding what he meant

'I will never go there again' he added, 'I will always stay at home with you'

Ady and Jane, now comprehending what their father meant overcome with joy had their faces in his lap and wept for very gladness

Low as all this had been said, every word reached the mother's ear, and while her heart yet stood trembling between hope and fear, Mr Freeman drew a paper from his pocket and threw it on the table by which he was sitting She opened it hastily It was a pledge with his well known signature subscribed at the bottom

With a cry of joy she sprang to his side and his arms encircled his wife as well as his little ones, in a fonder embrace than they had known for years

The children's love had saved their father They were indeed his good angels

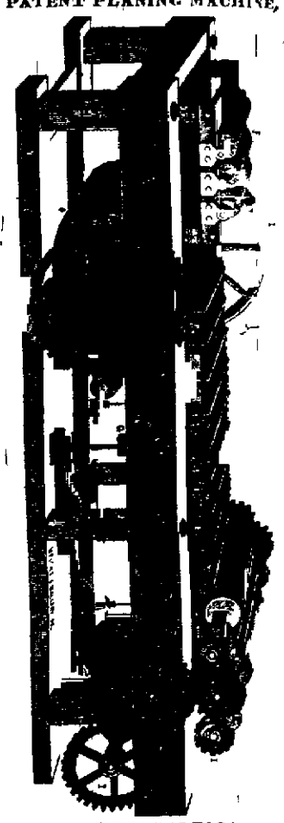
JOSEPH P WOODBURY'S PATENT PLANING MACHINE.



DESCRIPTION

Let a A, is the frame th t containing the machinery, B, is the travelling platform which is formed of bars and linked together similar to some of the well known horse powers, the upper part of which runs on ways or rollers which sustain it perfectly level G is the rollers over the platform which serve to hold it down flat on to carry the board under the stationary cutters D, is the pulley where the power is to be applied to drive the band which gives motion to the machine H represents the chain wheels and shafts, M, their y moving the platform, and making an endless belt of power E is the blocks or cast iron beds to which the cutters are attached, Said cutters are similar to those of a cabinet plane and are firmly secured to the bed with chalk and set screws F, is the yielding bar on which the cutters also extends across the machine, and is held down by springs under the same This bar is so matched as to as possible and it serves to hold the pieces of wood together just at the cutting edge, and effectually prevents splitting or tearing the wood It is adjusted to the inequalities of the board or plank and in gaging and thereby produces a perfect surface O is a frame that holds the cutters, stocks and wedges in their proper places and is to be raised or lowered to the different thicknesses of material If is the crank with the gearing attached to raise and lower the frame G, which holds the cutters I is a spring which pushes the feeding rollers, C, to the left hand end of the platform, B L is a series of rollers which hold the board over the cutters, to plane it to and from the end of the board K, is the cutters to plane the under side of the board, if required L, is a weight attached to screws to move a horizontal slide on which the rollers, G, are fixed, to hold the rollers, C, to which is attached wedges of The wheel and screw I moves the horizontal slide, thereby raising and lowering the roll rs to suit pieces of different thicknesses of material M is the driving wheels, on which the endless platform rests board is entered between the platform, B and the rollers, C and carried through under the cutters, E, which plane and reduce the board to the required thickness. It then moves forward between rollers, J, and the under cutters, K, which plane it over if required

The above described machine we produce a machine of excellent service and does the work with great facility, has planed six thousand feet in one hour and there is no doubt could not be as well done by the hand plane or by any other means now known

The Patent includes Planing Tonguering and Grooving machinery

Machines and rights to use the same can be obtained by calling on the Patentee, or the Agent Street in Boston Mass, where a Planing Machine can be seen in operation

McFARLAND'S
Cholera Syrup!!
Not a Secret Medicine!!!

Not an Empiric Preparation!!!

Here are the Proofs!!

BANGOR, Sept. 5, 1849.

I CERTIFIES that I have used McFARLAND'S CHOLERA SYRUP, with great benefit to my health, having accompanied a complete cure in every case of affection of the Bowels, and have in all cases spoken of it in the highest terms when called upon to administer to cholera or recommend the medicine either to those suffering with Cholera Morbus and kindred diseases.

WARREN THAYER.

Athens Village, Me.

TO THE PUBLIC.

I have used McFARLAND'S CHOLERA SYRUP, in severe cases of Bowel Complaints, for myself and family, and have also given the same to other persons for Vomiting, Purging and Cramps, and have recommended the medicine to many of my acquaintances who have used it, and in every instance, as far as I can learn, has it failed of affording an immediate cure.

I was seized with violent vomiting, Sept. 2d. I was seized with cramps and great distress in the Bowels, accompanied with excessive vomiting and purging and used the medicine but to take the above Syrup according to directions which gave me immediate relief, and I was well and have been ever since.

I would cheerfully recommend this medicine as being sound and efficacious in all cases which have fallen under my observation.

COSSACK SALVE!!

An Invaluable Remedy

FOR Fever Sores, Rheumatism, Swelling of the Feet and Limbs, Swelling of the Tonsils or Sore Throat, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Scalds, Burns, and all Scrofulous Diseases, Old Wounds, Chilblains, Corns or Bunions, Scald Head, Ringworms, Tetters, Scurf or Dandruff, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Felons, Sore Nipples, Weakness of the Back and Joints, Piles, Cuts and Bruises of all kinds.

In bringing it before the public we are aware that we are rendering no small advantage and relief to mankind. "Cossack Healing Ointment" stands unrivalled for curing all the above complaints. Numerous certificates of the most effectual and certain cures for all the cases and circumstances to which man or animals are subject.

A history of this Salve, and the wonderful cures it has effected in the above complaints will be found in a pamphlet accompanying each box—a reference to which is invited before purchasing.

We would only add, that we take undertaken the task of manufacturing the above named Salve without no considerable trouble and expense, but as much as a matter of speculation and public benefit as an object to us. In the earnest hope and confident expectation of persevering friends, and the [illegible] have experienced its wonderful medicinal and all healing properties.

It is indeed that we can not be set to realize a handsome remuneration for our services would be alike useless and untrue. [illegible] receives that it, for [illegible] we are recommended and the article soon, very soon [illegible] Public are [illegible] a full and [illegible]

The Salve is now before the Public!

Use, and they alone, will decide upon its real virtue and merit. In so far as [illegible] we can say [illegible] more would be superfluous.

Here are some of the many Certificates:—

The subscriber was afflicted with a Fever Sore [illegible] for about six years, and in the winter of 1845 it commenced swelling from the ankle to the knee. After using many so called without success, I applied from Salve I obtained of Mr. A. M. McKenney, and continued its application until I had used six bottles which entirely cured me, and I have had no return of the disease since. I would also say that I know the above Salve to be a cure for Cossack, one of my family having used it for this purpose with complete success.

Mr. Bessome—I was troubled in the woods in the autumn of 1845 [illegible] the chamber I gave a number of men for the winter lumbering operations. I was induced to take a few bottles of your Salve, I having been recommended to me as one of the best remedies for bestowing Cuts and Bruises, and I found it did it in great satisfaction, that it was unrivalled. I also had application of it in cases of [illegible] and found it to operate as recommended. It can truly be called the All Healing Salve.
